

Google appears to be building travel portal- maybe with Orbitz?

2006-04-17

This news may sound far afield of this blog, but not really. Hear me out.

Too many clues to just be a bunch of grasped-at straws here.

All this information makes me believe that Google is building a travel portal that will feature online booking, searchable travel information, full AdWords and AdSense integration, as well as high-bandwidth, streaming video of selected destinations and properties.

Accordingly, my educated guess is that not long from now, you'll enter travel.google.com and won't reach a dead-end link.

No, you will be reaching Google Travel, a partnership between Google and Orbitz.
