

Larkspur Hospitality Purchases The Cartwright Hotel in San Francisco

2006-10-19

New Hotel Is Larkspur's First Downtown SF Hotel

Larkspur Hospitality, one of the nation's fastest growing independent hotel companies, announced today that it has acquired The Cartwright Hotel in San Francisco, California. The hotel, which will also be operated by Larkspur, is the company's first leisure-based property in the popular tourist destination of downtown San Francisco.

"The Cartwright is the quintessential San Francisco hotel, and is the ideal home base for leisure travelers wanting to experience everything the city has to offer," said Karl Hoagland, Chairman and CEO, Larkspur Hospitality. "With the acquisition of The Cartwright, we are excited to bring Larkspur's signature genuine hospitality to San Francisco -- as The Cartwright experience will include warm and friendly service, cozy accommodations and great guest amenities.

Cartwright Hotel guests are greeted each day with a wonderful complimentary Healthy Start Breakfast and can finish a long day touring the City while relaxing at our wine reception featuring local artisan producers," continued Hoagland. "As is our philosophy when adding new hotels to our family, we are planning on undertaking a renovation shortly and will be ready with the new and improved Cartwright Hotel for the 2007 travel season."

Located in the heart of downtown San Francisco, The Cartwright Hotel features 114 guest rooms and offers an ideal location, just a few blocks from Union Square and the Powell Street cable car line. The hotel is also minutes away from popular San Francisco destinations such as Fisherman's Wharf, Chinatown, the Embarcadero and the new Westfield San Francisco Centre. The hotel recently underwent a $2.5 million renovation to refurbish its guest rooms and public spaces. Each guest room is designed to show off individual and distinctive antiques along with original black and white photos of the early 1900's in San Francisco. Other hotel amenities include complimentary wireless High-Speed Internet access in all guest rooms, a complimentary Healthy Start Breakfast each morning, a wine reception each evening and the hotel is pet friendly.

The hotel offers two meeting rooms for smaller conferences and receptions. The J.A. Adams Board Room offers 336 square feet of meeting space and can accommodate groups of up to 25 in a theater-style setting. The larger, Yerba Buena Room features 714 square feet of meeting space and can host groups of up to 50 people. Both rooms provide wireless High-Speed Internet access and a full selection of audio-visual components.
