Whats the problem with steak houses located in Hotels

The main problem internet users and travelers face today is too much not structurized information. Its difficult to find good restaurant or even steak house located in hotel. Even major search engines cannot help here as many restaurant webpages are not optimized for them. Usually such restaurants dont present much information about them online.

Here they can present general info, working hours, menus & wine list, location, maps, photo gallery, gift certificates, events, news and much more. Also theres a possibility for users to review and comment particular steak house. Reservations online are usefull as well.
