

Omni Hotels Names New Senior Vice President of Development to Lead Aggressive Growth Efforts
2007-11-14

Omni Hotels announced that Mike Garcia, formerly the company's chief financial officer, has been promoted to senior vice president of development, effective immediately.

Garcia is charged with extending the brand through new property development. He will also serve as senior vice president of business development for TRT Holdings, Omni's parent company.

'Mike is a great leader who has excelled in creating an aggressive development plan,' said Mike Deitemeyer, president of Omni Hotels. 'He has helped us capitalize on our ability as a privately held company to partner with other firms and close deals on property developments quickly and effectively.'

Garcia is a 12-year veteran of Omni Hotels and has played a vital role in establishing key accounting and financial reporting procedures when TRT Holdings initially acquired Omni Hotels. He has continued to be a strong leader in the organization, taking his strategic expertise beyond the financial realm into numerous areas of the organization. In the last few years, Garcia has taken on a more active role in Omni's development efforts, and he will now be able to further accelerate aggressive growth strategies in his new position.
